Sweet life

Life is made up of a collection of moments that we wish we could keep. The years go on unceasingly throughout our days spent on this earth, some from the times that some moments can be held onto. Clinging to people and experiences that were once in the best place in what seems as to pass out on the beauty of the moments that is the now. All of this is yours and none of it is. How could it be? Look around you. Everything is fleeting.

To have and not have and not let go, love and not let go, the single most important thing we can have in this lifetime.

And then...
